

SPORTS VOLUNTEERING IN ENGLAND 2002

A report for Sport England

July 2003

from the Leisure Industries Research Centre, Sheffield

Research team

Peter Taylor, Geoff Nichols, Kirsten Holmes, Matthew James, Management School, University of Sheffield
Chris Gratton, Richard Garrett, Themis Kokolakis,
Craig Mulder, School of Sport and Leisure
Management, Sheffield Hallam University
Lindsay King, Division of Sports Sciences,
Northumbria University

SPORTS VOLUNTEERING IN ENGLAND, 2002

CONTENTS	Page
Chapter 1 Introduction	1
Aims and objectives, scope and definition	1
Context	3
Methods	5
Structure of the report	8
Chapter 2 The Scale and Value of Volunteering in Sport in England	11
The national scale of volunteering in sport	11
Individual sectors in sport	15
National Governing Bodies, middle level volunteers and clubs	16
Unaffiliated volunteering	18
Schools	19
Universities	20
FE colleges	22
Young persons organisations	22
Disability organisations	24
Major events	25
Conclusion	26
Chapter 3 Characteristics of Sports Volunteers	28
Demographic and socio-economic structures of volunteers	28
Volunteer roles	31
Time spent volunteering at sports clubs	32
Other considerations	33
Conclusions	35
Chapter 4 Issues and Challenges to Volunteers in Sport	37
The research questions	37
Difficulties in the recruitment and use of volunteers	38
Issues arising from NGBs and Sport England initiatives and partnerships	53
Other challenges to volunteers	60
The motivation of volunteers	67
Conclusions	71

Chapter 5 Volunteer Management	74
Management of volunteers	75
Strategies for volunteers	83
Volunteer co-ordinators	84
Awareness and use of VIP	86
Other external assistance	89
Best practice in the management of volunteers	93
Conclusions	95
Chapter 6 Young People and Volunteering in Sport	98
Characteristics of young people surveyed	98
Young persons' volunteering	99
Attitudes of young participants to volunteering	102
Attitudes to young people volunteering	114
Conclusions	124
Chapter 7 The benefits of volunteering in sport	126
Individual benefits from volunteering	126
Benefits to clubs from volunteering	129
Benefits of volunteering in sport to the community	130
Conclusions	134
Chapter 8 Conclusions	135
Competition and increasing professionalisation	137
Government policy objectives	138
Technological change, risk aversion and legislation	140
Responses to pressures	141
Clashes of culture and motivations	142
Partnerships: synergy or a compromise of interests?	144
Implications	145
References	150
APPENDICES
1 Methods
2 Research instruments	