

Planning Applications Affecting Playing Fields – Regional Breakdown 2016-17

East

- 160 out of 162 (99%) concluded planning applications affecting playing fields resulted in improved or safeguarded sports provision
- Despite formal objections from Sport England, the number of applications which led to a detrimental impact on sport was 2 (1%)

East Midlands

- 98 out of 105 (93%) concluded planning applications affecting playing fields resulted in improved or safeguarded sports provision
- Despite formal objections from Sport England, the number of applications which led to a detrimental impact on sport was 7 (7%)

London

- 78 out of 93 (84%) concluded planning applications affecting playing fields resulted in improved or safeguarded sports provision
- Despite formal objections from Sport England, the number of applications which led to a detrimental impact on sport was 15 (16%)

North East

- 59 out of 62 (95%) concluded planning applications affecting playing fields resulted in improved or safeguarded sports provision
- Despite formal objections from Sport England, the number of applications which led to a detrimental impact on sport was 3 (5%)

North West

- 134 out of 142 (94%) concluded planning applications affecting playing fields resulted in improved or safeguarded sports provision
- Despite formal objections from Sport England, the number of applications which led to a detrimental impact on sport was 8 (6%)

South East

- 210 out of 237 (89%) concluded planning applications affecting playing fields resulted in improved or safeguarded sports provision
- Despite formal objections from Sport England, the number of applications which led to a detrimental impact on sport was 27 (11%)

South West

- 114 out of 124 (92%) concluded planning applications affecting playing fields resulted in improved or safeguarded sports provision
- Despite formal objections from Sport England, the number of applications which led to a detrimental impact on sport was 10 (8%).

West Midlands

- 119 out of 125 (95%) concluded planning applications affecting playing fields resulted in improved or safeguarded sports provision
- Despite formal objections from Sport England, the number of applications which led to a detrimental impact on sport was 6 (5%)

Yorkshire

- 130 out of 137 (95%) concluded planning applications affecting playing fields resulted in improved or safeguarded sports provision
- Despite formal objections from Sport England, the number of applications which led to a detrimental impact on sport was 7 (5%)